How to read this report. This is not the month's inflation: it compares each product's average price this week with its average price on the same days of the week before, so weekend promotions are on both sides. Products are combined as in the index: by kind, by group and with INDEC's official weights (ENGHo 2004/05). A product out of stock is not compared, and no price is ever made up. The month's inflation comes in the monthly report. Full method and open data: lacanastaindex.com
